Uncomplicated modules without limits

Redo presents a fresh, clever approach to the well-known modular sofas, with a design that is extraordinarily uncomplicated. Built on a flexible modular system, the design allows the modules to be combined in any desired configuration. The corner module serves as a right armrest, left armrest, and corner piece, enabling multiple iterations of the same sofa.

With its straightforward modular construction, Redo offers endless possibilities for customization. It adapts effortlessly to any room, solving the age-old challenge of moving from one home to another. Simply rearrange the modules and seamlessly integrate the sofa into its new surroundings. This adaptable, flexible attribute constitutes the entire foundation of the design, which has been granted the appropriate name “Redo” after its ability to be altered and rearranged again and again. The uniform design of the backrest and armrests alongside the meticulous, fully upholstered finish, ensures an aesthetic experience from every angle, making Redo an ideal sofa to place in the center of the room.

“The desire was to create a modular sofa that would elegantly combine flexibility, comfort and a contemporary expression. The result is a sleek design with clean lines, unparalleled comfort and limitless modular freedom” says designer, Simon Legald.

Comfort and sturdiness were a top priority in Redo, achieved through a delightful combination of foam and feathers enveloping an internal reinforcement structure, offering a soft and indulgent seating experience and durable quality. The solid oak legs add a touch of elegance, and for those seeking a different aesthetic, separately available, black-painted oak legs offer a stylish alternative.
