Product description:

A single strong steel band with intensive rounded edges gives this towel bar chunkiness without being heavy, and the small bar provides the piece with a light and minimalistic character. The rounded dimensions mean the holder meets the wall in an elegant manner. The extra matte and knurling surface add the right tactility and rawness. The knurling edges of the small bar are an extra detail and the most visually striking.

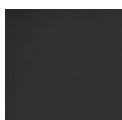

Designer's thoughts:

"The Arc bathroom design is about how different shapes meet each other. The large rounding in the back plate should meet the wall in a soft matter and add to a floating expression." - Herman Studio
